The Grub-ſtreet Journal. NUMB. 60.

Thursday, FEBRUART 25, 1731.

Nunquam te fallant animi ſub vulpe latentes.
Horat.

IT has been frequently objected to us, by our Critical Readers, that tho' the principal buſineſs of theſe our weekly lucubrations is to give proper accounts of, and encomiums on the productions of our own Members, and at the ſame time to depreciate thoſe of our adverſaries, yet that we have lately, either through malice propenſe, or unpardonable inadvertency, neglected this generous and laudable employment To which we return anſwer, that tho' indeed ſeveral of our learned and ingenious Brethren have, within theſe few weeks, put forth many admirable and praiſe-worthy performances, eſpecially in the dramatick way; yet ſo vitiated and capricious is the taſte of the Town, that they have been heard of but by few, and read by none at all; for which reaſon we conceived, any remarks on them would be altogether fruitleſs. As to the thing indeed called Harle-quin-Horace, which we are now to animadvert on, it has, to the grief of all true Grubeans, met with unmerited ſucceſs. I ſhall therefore make ſome proper Criticiſms on this invidious performance, and ſome uſeful obſervations on the rules it contains; many of which (as we obſerved in our laſt) may be of ſervice to our Society, if rightly applied. By this means we hope to gain a compleat victory over our adverſary, and to turn his own artillery againſt himſelf: a ſtratagem of no ſmall benefit to our worthy fraternity, and oft times put in practice, with remarkable ſucceſs, by our political Combatants.

To begin then with the Tit'le Page, or rather verily with the Frontiſpiece, as moſt correſpondent with the manner of modern Criticks, who never fail to fall foul on the firſt thing they come at. Now 'tis manifeſt at firſt ſight, that this was meant to be a repreſentation of the many wonderful and tranſporting incidents contained in that never-enough-to be-admired Perſeus and Andromeda. But alas! what a falling ſhort is here? how poorly, how faintly, how ſheepiſhly are they expreſſed!

In the firſt place, the woman's petticoats, in that ever memorable dance, which ſhould have been at leaſt ſome inches above the knee, are here no higher than the calf of the leg; whilſt the man, whoſe expreſſive motions, our fair Readers muſt well remember, is placed in a very dull and diſadvantageous light. Moreover, the Biſhops who are preſent, (the ſcene where this dance was performed being the inſide of a temple) are made in the picture to turn their eyes quite another way; when 'tis certain that at the time of its being repreſented on the ſtage, they were as obſervant of it as any Biſhops could poſſibly be. We might ſay much more with reſpect to the dog, which makes not half ſo good a figure as the Curr in the original. And as to the Motto at the bottom, it is ſtill more inexcuſable, foraſmuch as 'tis plain by the Serpentes are meant the Biſhops aforeſaid; and by the Agni, Mr. Nivelon and Madam Legar, whoſe behaviour, I muſt confeſs, did bear ſome reſemblance to the innocent ſporting of lambs.—But 'tis now almoſt time we were got over the threſhold, when lo! the title page ſticks in our way. Harlequin-Horace in red letters! that's wrong. Harlequin ſhould have been done both in red and black, by which means it would have been likewiſe the image of the thing it was the name of. Modern Poetry, in old capitals, worſe and worſe! by this means many of our Members, not being able to read this part of the title, imagined the performance was a political pamphlet, and that Harlequin Horace was little leſs than a ſquint on our Friend at Court.

Tempora mutantur, & nos mutamur in illis.

This motto would have confirmed them in their miſtake, had they known what it meant, it is ſo peculiarly applicable to ſome famous Politicians. — Printed for Lawton Gilliver at Homer's Head, worſt of all! That Gilliver has been the author of much evil to our Society, by bringing to light the works of our moſt inveterate enemies, POPE, SWIFT, &c. and what farther we have to expect from him, may be ſeen by his ſign.

At length we are got to the Dedication, which from one end to the other, is a malicious ridicule on an eminent Member of our Society, than whom none has ever merited more of our learned body, as well by his own marvellous and delectable compoſitions, as by the generous encouragement and ſupport he has given our Brethren; whereby many excellent Pieces have been made publick, which otherwiſe would never have ſeen the light. It is therefore no ſmall ſatisfaction to us to hear, that this Gentleman is bravely determined to retaliate the injury, by introducing a ſcene to that purpoſe in his next entertainment. Farthermore, we cannot but take notice of the opprobium, which this Beſpatterer has occaſionally caſt in his Dedication on ſome other of our worthy Patrons and Brethren, ſuch as the ſweet-ſavour'd Mr. HEYDEGGER, the reverend and modeſt Mr. HENLEY, and the witty Dr. ZOILUS; to ſay nothing of his virulent aſperſions on the taſte of the Town in general, and his abuſe and contempt of our Criticks in particular.—But if the Dedication is bad, much worſe is the Book: to the beginning of which we laſtly arrive. Now the firſt ten lines are an unpardonable breach of that great rule in the Bathos, called the Anticlimax, and as ſuch let 'em paſs.

'Tis not to think with ſtrength, and write with eaſe;
No, 'tis the Ægri Somnia now muſt pleaſe.

Quære, what does the Scribbler mean by the Ægri Somnia? ſurely not the writings of thoſe great Luminaries of our Society, WOOLSTON and TINDALL; tho' one would be induced to think ſo from the 2 following lines;

Things without head or tail, or form or grace,
A wild, forc'd, glaring, unconnected maſs.

Not indeed but that they are equally capable of being conſtrued to contain a ſpiteful innuendo on ſome of our Political Members and Brethren, the Journaliſts.

' A thouſand jarring things together yoke,
' The dog, the dome, the temple and the joke.

Surely, ſurely theſe cannot be deemed jarring things, ſince every one muſt acknowledge they are all of a piece.

' To grand beginnings, full of pomp and ſhow,
' Big things profeſt, and brags of what you'll do,
' Still ſome gay, glitt'ring, foreign gewgaws join,
' Which, like gilt points on Peter's coat may ſhine.

This indeed is, in it ſelf, an excellent rule, and has been practiſed by all our Tragick Bards with incredible ſucceſs. The Author of Eurydice, as he has imitated (not to ſay copied) his predeceſſors in many things, has likewiſe been more than even with them in this particular; inaſmuch as he begins his play with one of theſe gewgaws, being a large ſea-ſcape, of a Ship in a ſtorm, taken by Eurydice from her cloſet window.

' So old DINARCHUS toſſing on his bed, &c.

This is an example of the foregoing rule, drawn from an excellent performance of one of our Members; but how improper to the purpoſe, and how this Caviller has perverted the Author's meaning, may be plainly ſeen in the printed letter which was ſent him on this account. However, that performance is not without more beauties of this kind; I will inſtance in one, which now occurs to my memory. The ſame Dinarchus, queſtioning with himſelf what dying is, concludes, that 'tis ceaſing to think; and immediately deſcribes the new ſcenes, untaſted joys, and unimagined pleaſures, which this quitting our thoughts will open to us

' In one ſcene make your Hero cant and whine,
' Then roar out Liberty in every line.

This is, in many reſpects, an incomparable rule. In the firſt place, the frequent exclamations of O Liberty! O Freedom! O my Country! cannot but draw repeated claps from all true Patriots, eſpecially thoſe diſtinguiſhed ones, who conſult on the good of the nation in the Court of Requeſts: and ſecondly, the fair ſpectators muſt neceſſarily receive infinite ſatisfaction at beholding the Hero, who is one moment talking ſo big, and ſlaying every one round him, the next, begging on his knees to be his Miſtreſſes ſlave, which, unleſs ſhe will grant, he muſt die at her feet.

' What tho' in POPE's harmonious lays combine, &c.

Half a dozen extraordinary lines indeed, and thoſe too in praiſe of our moſt implacable adverſary.

' Heaven grant I never write like him I mention,
' Since to the Bays I could not make pretenſion,
' Nor, Threſher like, hope to obtain a penſion.

Theſe lines are a paltry imitation of the ſtile of two renowned Grubeans, the illuſtrious LAUREATE, and the mighty DUCK.

' Ne'er wait for ſubjects equal to your might;
' For then, 'tis ten to one, you never write.

This inſinuation is altogether groundleſs: for, 'tis well known, that our Members are ſo curious and happy in their choice of ſubjects, that 'tis quite impoſſible to write beneath 'em.

' When hunger prompts you, take the firſt you meet;
' For who'd ſtand chuſing, when he wants to eat?

Alter theſe two lines in the following manner:

When thirſt ſhall prompt you, write what firſt you think:
For who'd ſtand chuſing, when he wants to drink?

This thirſt may be taken for thirſt of fame, (ſitis famæ) and want to drink, for want to drink of Helicon; but as they ſtand in the original, they contain a malicious reflection on our Brethren in general, as if they liv'd by their Wits, which I averr to be entirely falſe and impoſſible. Beſides, that we have many eminent Authors amongſt us, who never knew what it was to be hungry yet; and whoſe Poetry is more like the overflowings of a full ſtomach, than the keen remonſtrances of an empty one. A remarkable inſtance of this we have in a late admirable Tragedy called Periander, where the King, reſolving to inflict a peculiar puniſhment on his priſoner, gives the following orders.

' Give him but food enough to keep in life,
' To morrow let his portion ſtill be leſs,
' That worms may prey on him before he dies,
' And piecemeal he may moulder into duſt.

From whence 'tis manifeſt to the compaſſionate reader, that the Author was not in the leaſt acquainted with the nature of faſting.

' In coining words your own diſcretion uſe, &c.

This licence one of our moſt illuſtrious members has made uſe of, with the utmoſt prudence and circumſpection, in his SHAKESPEARE reſtor'd; not only coining words, but likewiſe ſyllables, letters, colons and ſemicolons: on which account (if his wonderful modeſty would have permitted him) he might have juſtly entitled it, SHAKESPEARE with Additions and Emendations; and the two following lines of Harlequin-Horace would have been an excellent motto to it,

' Thus nature, wit, and ſenſe muſt blaſted fall,
' Whilſt blooming ignorance prevails o'er all.

' No work ſo great, but what admits decay;
' No act ſo glorious, but muſt fade away.

Verily this is falſe, for we queſtion not but that theſe Memoirs of our Society, ſhall laſt till Suns themſelves ſhall fail.

' Lo! Smithfield Shows a poliſh'd court engage

The writer is here undoubtedly in an error, it ought to have been Southwark Shows, ſince it was at that place that the moſt remarkable favour was ſhewn to thoſe kind of performances: not indeed that any of our Members, who compoſe theſe elegant entertainments, have cauſe to complain of the want of encouragement in any place whatever.

' What Bard, for ſtarving ſenſe would ſuffer death,
' When fruitful folly is th' eſtabliſh'd faith?

We muſt confeſs indeed, that upon conſulting the book of martyrs, we do not find any amongſt 'em who were ever Members of our Society, our Brethren always providently and diſcreetly concluding, that whenever either ſenſe or religion begun to pinch them, they were immediately to be thrown off, like a ſtreight pair of ſhoes.

Dr. Denn, Archdeacon of Rocheſter. C. —— Thurſday night the play of Ignoramus was acted at Weſtminſter ſchool by the ſcholars, before a great many of the Nobility and eminent Lawyers, &c. D P.

The King of France has made a preſent to the R. H. the L. Mayor, for his picture finely drawn, in return for his ſeveral favours received from his Lordſhip. —— Ibid. This Paragraph diſtinguiſhes his Lordſhip from all his Predeceſſors.

By letters by the Lovely Anne, which ſailed from South Carolina Dec. 15. we learn, that the Fox man of war was arrived with the Indian Chiefs, but [who] were not gone up the country, by reaſon their nation was at war with the Carrookee Indians, and that they had ſent up the country for a body to guard them home; the Governor likewiſe deſiging to ſend with them a guard from Charles Town. C.

We hear that his Majeſty has declared his intention of paſſing ſome part of the ſummer at Richmond and Hampton-Court, and to go to Windſor for 6 weeks, about the time of the hunting ſeaſon. L E.

The number of Attornies ſworn in at the King's-Bench are 1157, and in the Common-Pleas 3006: ſeveral of whom are ſworn in both Courts; ſuppoſe 163, and then the whole number of Attornies throughout England is only 4000. Ibid.

One night this week the famous French Dog, who plays at cards with ſurprizing dexterity, and performs many wonderful tricks, beat Dr. Arbuthnot, one of her Majeſty's Phyſicians, 2 games at Quadrille before the junior Dutcheſs of Marlborough, and many other great perſonages. Ibid. —— For the honour of the Sex, it was a French Bitch.

There are no leſs already then 40 Petitions preſented to the Parliament, complaining of the great decay of the woollen manufacture, which to regulate for the benefit of the ſubject, will take up a conſiderable deliberation. S J.

MONDAY, Feb. 22.

Yeſterday the Rev. Dr. Jones preached before their Majeſties, &c. in the Chappel Royal at S. James's; and Dr. Crow before his Highneſs the Duke, &c. in his R. Highneſs's apartment. C. P. —— This being the anniverſary of the Birth-day of the Princeſs Mary, 4th daughter to their Majeſties, her Highneſs enters into the 9th year of her age. D P.

Saturday the Rev. Dr. Smallbrook, Biſhop of S. David's, was tranſlated at S. Mary le Bow into the See of Litchfield and Coventry, with the uſual ceremony, &c. C. D P. —— The ſame day Tho. Robinſon, Eſq; Member of Parl. for Morpeth, and his Brother, Mr. Septimus Robinſon, kiſs'd their Majeſties hands, the former being made a Baronet of G. Britain, and the latter a Cornet in Gen. Wade's regiment of horſe. D P. D J.

The South Sea Company have received advice from Jamaica of their Snow, the Aſſiento, reported to have been loſt, being ſafe and well. D J. —By the laſt Ships from Oporto we hear, that the Rev. Mr. John Smith, M. A. and late Fellow of S. John's College in Oxford, died of a fever, and was buried very privately on the 31ſt paſt, N. S. He was elected laſt year Chaplain to the Britiſh Factory there; a poſt of as much caution as profit, in a country tyrannized over by the Inquiſition to that degree, that our Factors could never obtain more than a licence for publick ſervice in their houſes alternatively, and that in the moſt ſecret manner; yet this Gentleman, by his learning and inoffenſive converſation, had charmed his Countrymen and the Natives ſo much in a ſhort time, that he was univerſally beloved, reſpected and lamented. D P.

Laſt week died the 2d ſon of the Lord Paiſly, at the ſeat of Mr. Plummer in Hertfordſhire. We hear that his death was occaſioned by a miſtake of a Nurſe, who was ordered to give him a draught with 3 drops of Laudinam [Laudanum, inſtead of which ſhe gave him the Laudinam [Laudanum], and the drops from the other bottle; ſoon after which all the ſymptoms of death came upon him, and he expired in 3 hours. He was a young Gentleman of a fine promiſing genius. C. —— Saturday morning Mr. Tho Overing, a Scale-maker in Bartholomew-lane, was taken with a violent fit of coughing, of which he expired, &c. Ibid. He ſent to Portugal this laſt year 27000 pair of ſcales. D J.

The Gameſters at the Phœnix in the Hay-market, having removed their gaming table to a ground room backwards, the paſſage to which is through the cellar of another houſe, and being ſecured with treble doors, and 2 centinels, or orderly men, conſtantly walking about the door, thought themſelves pretty ſecure: but a freſh information having been given, that the ſaid Gaming-houſe is frequented by ſeveral Highwaymen, Street-robbers, &c. a new Warrant to ſearch was granted under the hands and ſeals of 14 Juſtices; and a great number of Conſtables, &c. went on friday night to execute it: they were a long time vigorouſly oppoſed by the Gameſters, who aſſaulted them with red-hot pokers and ſpits; but at laſt they entered the gaming-room, and took 7 of them. Will. Ambroſe, the Box-keeper, was committed to Newgate for want of ſureties to play no more at unlawful games, and for aſſaulting the Conſtables with a red-hot poker; Sam Smith was committed to the Gate-houſe, being a common Gameſter; Edw. Mortimer and Michael Picket, the one a Gentleman's ſervant, the other a Stay maker, were committed to Tothil-fields Bridewell to hard labour; Wilſon, a Lawyer's Clerk, was bound to his good behaviour; a Cooper in the Minories, thought not to be an old offender, was diſcharged; as was a Soldier of the Guards, who was a door keeper, upon giving information againſt ſeveral common Gameſters. D P. Four or 5 eſcaped through a hole which they broke into the wall of the adjoining houſe. P. —Tho' theſe Gentlemen have been uſed to play at Hide and ſeek, yet the greater number of them were not a match for the Conſtables: the 4 or 5 Houſe-breakers underſtood the game better than the Highwaymen and Street-robbers.

TUESDAY, Feb. 23.

Laſt week a diſpenſation paſs'd the ſeal, to enable the Rev. Dr. Sam. Croxall, D. D. to hold the Vicarage of Hampton in the County of Middleſex together with the Rectory of S. Mary Somerſet with the Rectory of S. Mary Monthaw annexed, in the City of London. D P.

Saturday morning a Country Clergyman put up at the Greyhound in Smithfield; but being ſomewhat diſordered in his ſenſes, the Landlord took more than ordinary care of him, by ordering his ſervant to ſee him ſafe in bed; yet about 4 the ſaid morning he aroſe and flung himſelf out of a window 2 pair of ſtairs, but his fall was broke by a pent-houſe and he received no other damage than breaking his head; and after being dreſſed by an able Surgeon he ſet out the ſame morning in the ſtage coach for the Country, with proper attendance. C. —This Saturday morning being ſo long, My Brother ſhould have mentioned the hours when this Clergyman put up, and let out as well as that when he put out of the window; and ſhould likewiſe have told us what the Landlord's ordinary care of his Gueſts was, when his more than ordinary care was only to order his man to ſee them ſafe in bed.

The ſame day a Corn-mill near Stratford, in Eſſex, took fire for want of greaſing, and was conſumed, with ſome adjoining buildings. The damage is computed at 100 l. D P.

Cheſter, Feb. 23. One Tho. Davis of Wardle near Namptwich, an honeſt Labouring man, dy'd laſt week, aged 105, &c. —— Laſt week a Gent. of a good eſtate at Kelſal, within 6 miles of this city, buried 6 children, all grown up to men and women, who dy'd all in a weeks time of the ſmall pox, ſo that he has but one ſon living. 4 Ev.

The Rev. Dr. Cary, Rect. of S. Katherine Coleman in Fenchurch-ſtreet, is appointed Chaplain to his Grace the D. of Dorſet, as L. Lieut. of Ireland. Ibid.——Saturday laſt the Lords of the Treaſury ſign'd a Warrant for a Patent conſtituting Mr. Will. Allen, Cuſtomer at Portſmouth and Chicheſter, in the room of Mr. Hen. Baker deceas'd, L E. —— Sir Rob. Walpole has order'd a pair of gold ſpurs to be made, which he deſigns as a Preſent to the Duke. Ibid.

All our Letters from the Learned World abroad are loud on the late extraordinary regulation made by the Royal Society, in the new method of expoſing their Candidates to be potted up, &c. a hardſhip not put on Engliſhmen elſewhere, &c. but foreign Academies now ſeem una nimous in rejecting all Engliſh merit, 'till theſe Gentlemen can be perſwaded to make another alteration for the better: their Royal Founders intentions, ſome think, by this act they have tranſgreſſed. Ibid.

What was mentioned in the D P. and L E. of ſaturday laſt of Mrs. Wilſon's having a mortgage, &c. is groundleſs. All ſhe held under the family was an eſtate of about 45 l. per ann. which on her death deſcends equally between the Lady Gage, and Tho. Broom-Horrwood, Eſq; E P.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 24.

Yeſterday were rehearſed at S. Paul's, for the feſtival of the Sons of the Clergy, which is to be celebrated to-morrow, the great Te Deum and Jubilate, compoſed by Mr. Handel, for the publick thankſgiving upon the peace of Utrecht, together with the 2 anthems made by him for the coronation of his preſent Majeſty; there was a nobler audience, and a more generous contribution to the charity, than has been known, the collection amounting to 203 l. 9 s. 7 d. which is very near double what has been given in any other year. P. D J.

The ſame day was preached an excellent ſermon before the aſſociates of Dr. Bray, deceaſed, by the Rev. Mr. Smith of Aldgate, at the Church of S. Auguſtine, near S. Paul's: it related to the amply furniſhing parochial Libraries for inſtructing the Negro ſlaves at the Britiſh Plantations; and to the charitably planting and eſtabliſhing Colonies of ſuch indigent families as are deſirous of a comfortable ſettlement in the ſouth part of Carolina. The ſaid aſſociates have agreed to return their thanks to the ſaid Mr. Smith for his ſaid ſermon, and deſire him to give them a copy thereof, and his leave to print the ſame. D P. —— I dare ſay this Article was drawn up by a Limb of the Law; and (to avoid tautology) that the ſaid Article was the work of ſome one of the ſaid Profeſſion.

Tho. Ward, Eſq; his Majeſty's Conſul Gen. in the Ruſſian Dominions, died at Moſcow the 24th ult. after a lingering illneſs. —— Sunday laſt died ſuddenly at the Bath, the Rev. Dr. Smith, Senior Fellow of S. John's Oxford; and Head Maſter of Merchant-Taylors School. D J. —— Yeſterday died Mr. Nicholſon, who delivered the votes to the Members of the Houſe of Commons. The place worth between 2 and 300 l per ann. is in the gift of Tho. Spence, Eſq; Serjeant at Arms attending the ſaid Houſe. D P.

By this Bill the great Art of the Author appears in confining the whole Life, Amours, &c. of ſo celebrated a Lady within the narrow compaſs of 29 pages: to which if we add 20 containing her laſt Will, &c. they will make 49. And as this Conciſeneſs is ſurprizing: ſo his Art in drawing in ſo many circumſtances relating to other Perſons, as to take up 200 pages, is really amazing.

To connect things, in all appearance ſo foreign to his purpoſe, is intirely owing to the Author's being a perfect Adept in the Philoſophy of the great Mr. Hobbes; and whoever ſhall read his Book, or our Abridgment of it, cannot but be convinced of the truth of his Concatenation of thoughts. We are therefore almoſt certain that no curious Perſon will grudge ſo ſmall a price as 3 s. 6 d. for ſo large a Piece of Hobbiſm, and Curliſm in the modeſt ſenſe of the word, exhibited at full length; much leſs 2 d for the ſame drawn in miniature.

The Letter written by TOBIT TERRIER, concerning LONG-CHIN alias CONE-CHIN, JACK CABBAGE-HEAD, with his Raree Show of Adam and Eve, and the 12 Patriarchs, all in Ginger-bread, and BLUNT-WIT, the Moral-monger and Eſſay-ſtitcher, was read before the Society, at the firſt meeting after it was received; and tho' it yielded much diverſion, it was not thought proper for ſome reaſons, to publiſh it. —— The Letter from TITUS MEANWELL, in relation to the former, was read this day; and he is deſired to communicate the Memoirs he mentions, which we don't doubt will be very diverting.

Complaint being made of the piratical practices of ſome Printers and Bookſellers, in publiſhing The Gentleman's, Beau's, and Lover's Miſcellanies, The Windſor, and London Medleys, &c. the Society aſſure the world, that they are all impoſitions upon the Public. And as to the Grub-ſtreet Miſcellany, publiſhed this day, they wonder with what front the Author can ſtile himſelf Mr. BAVIUS, Jun. F. G. S. Mr. BAVIUS our Secretary is the only Perſon of that name amongſt us; but as for Mr. BAVIUS Jun. we take him to be a Tenant of ſome neighbouring garret. The fame of our Journal has put theſe Poetical Interlopers upon theſe little tricks; which have determined us to ſatisfy the curioſity of the Public the ſooner, by haſtening the publication of The Memoirs of the Society of Grub-ſtreet for the year 1730, with Annotations, printed on an Elzevir Letter in Twelves.

Dublin, Feb. 13. Monday and tueſday laſt, we had violent ſtorms of wind, by which ſeveral Ships of our harbour ſuffer'd; the man of war was alſo drove on the North Bull, but has got off again. A Sloop laden with rum was taken away, and all the men loſt; and on wedneſday about 17 butts of rum were taken up at ſea by ſome wherries, and brought to the Cuſtom-houſe. C. &c.

Extract of a letter from Jamaica, dated Dec. 4, 1730. We have received a letter from Panama, in which is the following melancholy news, viz. by a ſmall veſſel which arrived yeſterday from Paita, we have the dreadful news of the loſs of the Kingdom of Chili, by an earthquake and inundation; the firſt laſted 27 days, wherein perſons innumerable periſhed, with all the City of S. Jago. The inundation overflowed the City of Conception, and even reached as far as Callao, where it mounted the walls, and filled the ſquare with water. This flood was occaſioned by the earthquake. 4 Ev. Feb. 20.

FOREIGN NEWS.

THURSDAY, Feb. 18.

Yeſterday arrived the Mail due from France.

Paris, Feb. 24. N. S. The damage done by the blowing up of the gun-powder warehouſe in the ſuburb of S. Marceau, is computed at 55,000 livres, and the owner is ordered to make good all the damage. C. D P.

Venice, Jan 28. The laſt letters from Conſtantinople adviſe, that the depoſed Sultan, who is ſhut up in the Seven Towers, was magnificently treated there, and with the ſame honours, as if he was ſtill upon the throne. Ibid.

Rome, Jan. 20. The Gentlemen of the family of the Chevalier de S. George, and thoſe of the Card. de Polignac meet ſometimes at the Coffee-houſe in the Piazza d'Eſpagna, where a very remarkable Dialogue happened thurſday laſt. The Frenchman alledged, that the Chevalier was infinitely obliged to France. The Engliſhman aſſerted, that K. James II. loſt his crown in a great meaſure, becauſe he would not make war againſt France, and enumerated the ſeveral victories gained by the Britiſh ſubjects for France, by which that Monarchy was more than once preſerved. The diſpute was carried on with temper and good manners; and the audience at laſt laid the obligation, with one conſent, entirely upon France: but to mortify the Engliſhman, an old Roman Politician ſaid, The French were Men, and knew how to make uſe of B——ſts. —— The Chevalier is very much diſturbed at the murder lately committed in his Palace at Albano, with the loſs of plate, clocks, rings, and money, to a very great value: whereupon our Government has promiſed 200 crowns, and the Chevalier 300, to whomſoever ſhall deliver up the murderer alive or dead. P. The Aſſaſſin a domeſtic ſervant, who lately murdered his Gentleman, who had care of his wardrobe. D P.

FRIDAY, Feb. 19.

Rome, Jan. 27. On the 20th was perform'd, in the Church of S. Agnes without the walls, the ceremony of bleſſing the 2 lambs, whoſe wool being delivered into the hands of the Pope, by the Chapter of S. John de Lateran, is to be made into the ſtuff with which they make the Palliums which his Holineſs gives to the Archbiſhops and Biſhops. C.

Cadiz, Feb. 6. The Spaniards are making a fort in the form of a half moon, of 60 guns, and work on it very briskly, which will annoy all the Ships that anchor in the bay of Gibraltar, ſo that there will be no lying there; and they talk of building another of 100 guns on the point of Cabritta near Tariffa; and a third on the little iſland near old Gibraltar. D J.

SATURDAY, Feb. 20.

Yeſterday arrived a Mail from Flanders.

Parma, Feb. 6. Yeſterday a Courier returned from Vienna, with whoſe diſpatches her ſerene Highneſs appears well ſatisfied. The Imperial Troops obſerve good diſcipline, and give not the leaſt occaſion of complaint. D P.

Hamburgh, Feb. 20. They write from Hanover, that the Counts de Platen and d'Enhauſen had fought a duel at piſtol, but both came off unhurt; only the horſe of the latter was ſo wounded, that 'tis thought he muſt be knocked on the head. C. — The Count de Von Platen's horſe, valued at 1000 crowns. L E. Lent on that occaſion by Lieut. Col. Dieffenbruck, who had it a preſent from his R. Highneſs the Prince of Wales. D P. Feb. 23.

MONDAY, Feb. 22.

Moſcow, Jan. 29. N. S. The Ambaſſadors of China, to the number of 5, made their publick entry into this City on the 25th. C. D J. —— During the march, one of the Ambaſſadors ſmoaked his pipe with a great deal of gravity; as did likewiſe ſeveral of their domeſticks. C.

Feb. 1. An Expreſs from the Czarina's Reſident at Conſtantinople has brought advice, that the Grand Seignior ordered his Grand Vizier to give the ſtrongeſt aſſurances to the Miniſters of this Court, and that of Vienna, that he will inviolably maintain the peace with the 2 Courts; and that he had nominated 2 Miniſters to go to Moſcow and Vienna, to notify his acceſſion to the Ottoman Empire, and to renew the Treaties formerly concluded with thoſe 2 Powers. C. D J.

Yeſterday arrived the Mail due from France.

Paris, Feb. 28. N. S. The Queen's pregnancy being declared, ſhe left off keeping Lent laſt week. C. —— On the 19th arrived an Expreſs from Turin, with advice, that K. Victor Amadeus was very ill of an apoplectick fit, but we have ſince learnt by another, that he is much better. —— Our laſt letters from Vienna intimate, that the Duke de Liria, Miniſter, &c. of the King of Spain, had frequent conferences with the Emperor's Miniſters; and that it was hoped the differences between thoſe 2 Powers will be ſpeedily terminated. C. D P. ——

TUESDAY, Feb. 23.

Extract of a Letter from Nantes, Feb. 24. Yeſterday we heard, that the Q. of Angels of Rochel had met on the coaſt of S. Domingo (i. e. Hiſpaniola) 2 Spaniſh Privateers, who, after a hard fight, had taken her, the Captain and a great part of the crew being firſt killed: the Ship was carried to Cuba, with an Engliſh Ship richly laden, which they fitted out as a Privateer: ſo that they have 3, one of which carries 104 men. They ſent the French Ship (after taking out the goods) to S. Domingo, with the Engliſh crew. Pray tell this news as certain, being perſuaded, that the Engliſh nation will order a man of war on theſe (Fripons) Villains. P. D J.

Florence, Feb. 3. They write from Parma that the Pope is determin'd to uſe all means poſſible to ſupport his right over the States of Parma and Placentia, as Fiefs of the Holy See, and has ſent inſtructions to his Miniſters at the Courts of France and Spain, to ſolicite their aſſiſtance for that purpoſe. D P.

This day came in the Holland Mail.

Vienna, Feb. 17. The new Grand Seignior is not yet intirely eaſy in his throne. Count Kufſtein is ſet out for different Courts of Germany. The Pope threatens to excommunicate the German Troops that have taken poſſeſſion of Parma and Placentia; but the Emperor [illegible] may turn the buckle of his girdle behind him. W

BRISTOL HOTWELL WATER * BATTERSBEE AND BISHOP *

WHEREAS the Publick has of late been much imposed on by false and spurious Waters, instead of the true Bristol Hotwell Water, yet pretended to be the same; and in order to prevent, in some measure, the like Abuse for the future, we John Battersbee and William Bishop, Masters of the Bristol Hot-well, do hereby give Notice, that all Bottles of Water sealed otherwise than according to the Impression here affixed, were never filled at our Spring; and any Person, ordering Waters from us, may, if desired, have a Certificate of its Genuineness sent with it sign'd by our own Hand as and 'tis desired that such Persons as give Orders to their Friends or Correspondents here to procure the said Water for them, would order such a Certificate therewith.

The best Water in the World,

So called by Those who have experienced it to be so, for the ITCH, or any ITCHING Humours.

IT hath been taken inwardly for the King's-Evil. It is good to cure sore Eyes, or any other Sores, Ulcers, or Fistula's; it has preserved several from having their Limbs cut off, when all other means have failed.

The Price of the Bottle, One Shilling and Six Pence.

It is sold at Mr. Goudge's, at the Castle in Westminster-Hall; Mr. Radford's Toy-Shop, at the Rose and Crown over-against St. Clement's Church-Yard in the Strand, near Arundel-Street End, and at Mrs Raw's at the North-Entrance of the Royal-Exchange, over-against Bartholomew-Lane.

The Cœlestial Anodyne Tincture: Or, The Great Pain-Easing Medicine,

FAm'd and approv'd of for its wonderful and never-failing Success, in giving immediate Ease and Relief in all manner of Pains, either inward or outward, and is the most certain Remedy in the World for a sure and speedy Cure of the Cholick, and expelling Wind, Gripes and Pains in the Stomach, the Pleurisy, stitches or pains in the side back, loins, or any other part; Rheumatick Ailments, which cause pain and dolor. It hath given ease to a Muscle, when all other Remedies have fail'd; In the Gravel and Stone in the Kidneys, it gives ease forthwith, and brings them away to Admiration. It also facilitates and causes a speedy Delivery in Child-birth. 'Tis no Quack trifling thing to allure the World with, but a real and well-experienced Medicine, not acting by Stupefaction (as Opiates) but by a friendly, balsamick, and subtile Nature, pacifying the most severe and terrible racking pains, and carries off the Cause, not by purging, but by Transpiration, by Urine, or breaking Wind. No Family ought to be without it; and used outwardly it cures Swellings, Aches, Pains, Numbness or Weakness of the Joints; 'tis excellent for Cramps, and all other aged Infirmities, effecting Wonders in Agues, Fevers, Small-pox, &c.

No Family ought to be without it.

It is sold only by Mr. PARKER, Printer, at his House in Salisbury-Court, or by such persons as he shall depute, viz. at Mr. Parker's, a Printer, in Bull-Head Court, Jewin-street; at the White Gallon Pot, a Chandler's Shop in Bandy-Leg-Walk, Southwark, and at Mr. Neal's, a Toy-shop over against the White Hart Inn in the Borough, at Eighteen-pence a Bottle, with printed Directions: and, if requested, will be brought to any person, by the Hawker who sells his Penny Post. Sealed as above.

In Consideration of the daily Disturbance in Churches, by continual Coughing, is recommended,

The Original, Inestimable, Angelick
E L E C T U A R Y:

Being a speedy Cure for Coughs, Cold, Asthmas, Phthisick, Wheesings, difficult Breathings, and Shortness of Breath.

A Preparation, not only to be had in Esteem from the great Skill of all Medicinal Composition, but also from the Choiceness of its Ingredients, every one of them contributing, by their particular Virtues, to make it the most effectual Medicine in the whole Republick of Physick. It daily overcomes the most grounded Coughs, tho' of never so long standing, and perfectly cures them in a very little Time: 'Tis found to be the most sure Help, and the only Medicine in the World, for old Consumptions, Phthisick, Colds, Wheesing, Asthmas, Shortness of Breath, and all other Diseases of the Breast and Lungs, restoring those that are left off by Physicians, remaining in utter Despair under the Burden of their miserable Lives: It dissolves congealed Phlegm in the Thorax; takes away the Tickling in the Aspera Arteria; heals Rawness and Soreness of the Lungs, Breast and Stomach, causing easy Expectoration; cures vehement Catarrhs, Distillation of Rheum, and all Fluxes of Humours falling upon any of the noble Parts: It gives immediate Relief, as soon as taken, in the severest of Coughing, and so perfectly frees the Patient at once. This Preparation is much more effectual than any Liquids or Tinctures: A Tincture may give ease by its Opiate Nature, but this Electuary, by balsamick and subtile Property, effectually performs the Cure.

It is likewise an effectual Remedy for Whooping-Coughs in Children.

Prepar'd and Sold by the Author, a Chymist, at his House the 2d Door on the Right Hand in Bride-Lane, near Fleet-street; where any Shopkeepers may be furnished therewith, with good Allowance. Also, at Mr. Robotham's Toyshop, next the Gridiron, Whitechapel-Bars; at Mr. Neal's Toyshop over-against the White Hart-Inn in the Borough of Southwark; and by Mr. Brown, Bookseller, next to the King's Sadler's, Charing-Cross; at the Mitre in Jewin-street; at Mrs Garway's at the South Gate of the Royal-Exchange; at the White Gallon-pot, a Chandler's-Shop, in Bandy-Leg-Walk, Southwark.

At One Shilling a Pot, with Directions.

I have also an infallible Remedy for Convulsions, and all Hysterick Fits whatsoever, which hath made a perfect Cure, when all other Remedies have fail'd as Hundreds have experienced, to their intire Satisfaction. One Guinea a Bottle.
